SCHOLARSHIPS & FINANCIAL AID

The cost of studying abroad may be less than you think! The real cost is actually the difference between studying on campus and studying abroad. In most cases, this difference comprises travel costs and any change in cost of living. There are programs where the total cost is the same or less than studying in Austin.

- Your financial aid package can be applied toward program costs.
- More than $1 million annually in scholarships awarded.
- Great award rate for national scholarships, such as the Gilman Scholarship.

By planning ahead, you will have access to a wider range of scholarships to help support your study abroad plans, as many have application deadlines of up to one year in advance. Information on relevant national, local, and campus scholarships is available through UT Education Abroad.
